

FINANCE, BACHELOR OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION WITH A CONCENTRATION IN BUSINESS FINANCE (B.B.A.)

The field of finance includes activities associated with banking, debt, credit, capital markets, money, and investments. Finance represents money management and the process of acquiring needed funds. It also encompasses the oversight, creation, and study of money, banking, credit, investments, assets, and liabilities that make up financial systems. Since individuals, businesses, and government entities all need funding to operate, the finance field includes three main sub-categories:

- personal finance,
- corporate finance, and
- public (government) finance.

Business Finance Concentration

The Business Finance Concentration is designed for the broadest options in your academic career. While all finance students learn corporate finance, financial institutions, investments, and valuation; the business finance concentration gives the student the option of selecting additional courses to focus on further areas as desired.
