

CONSERVATION LAW ENFORCEMENT, UNIVERSITY CERTIFICATE

A university certificate in Conservation Law Enforcement is offered by the Police Studies Program in the School of Justice Studies, in partnership with Emergency Medical Care, Fire and Safety Engineering Technology, and Wildlife Management. This certificate prepares future public safety professionals interested in broadening their knowledge and professional expertise in wildlife management, policy and administration; fire and emergency scene operations; first responder emergency medical care; and conservation law enforcement. This knowledge base will be useful not only to those public safety officers who choose to work for traditional outdoor public safety organizations such as the Department of Interior, U.S. Forest Service, State Fish and Wildlife agencies and National Parks, but also for those who work in traditional public safety organizations in rural communities.
